Here is what's important to me when choosing a computer:

- Monitor size (how big the screen will be)
- Hard drive space (how much data will be stored)
- Portability (how easily you will be able to move it around)
- Performance speed (how well it works with many programs running at once)
- Wireless capabilities (how well it connects to wireless internet)
- Memory capacity (how much information it will hold)
- Graphics and sound capabilities (how well you'll edit and experience multimedia)
